Bandit Gets $142 in Holdup At Station

Robber With Scar on Face Sought by Police

A bandit pointing a small revolver robbed and slugged a service station attendant early today at 7129 Highway 80 East. He got $142.22, Owner Bob Holt said.

ROBBED—Service station attendant George A. Montgomery and cash register from which a bandit took $142.22 early today.

George A. Montgomery, night attendant, said the man came into the station and started a conversation with him just after midnight. "About 12:20 a. m.," Montgomery said, "he stuck a gun in my ribs and demanded the key to the cash register. I took it out of my pocket and gave it to him. "As long as he held the gun he was the boss."

The bandit took all the money in the register except 27 cents in pennies. He left credit cards and checks in the cash drawer. He dropped some nickles but didn't pick them up. "After he took the money he asked for my wallet," Montgomery said. "There was only four pesos inside. The man, who Montgomery said had a deep scar in the center of his forehead, took the attendant to a storeroom at the rear of the station. There he made Montgomery stand against the wall. "Let's make this look good," Montgomery quoted the bandit as saying. "Then he hit me on the back of the head with the barrel of the gun. It didn't knock me out but I was stunned."

Fire Link Weak In Hospital Drill

Officials of William Beaumont Army Hospital and umpires of yesterday's "Operation Fire Drill" said today the results of the drill proved that the hospital is prepared to provide maximum surgical and medical care for mass casualties in a major disaster.

This joint opinion was expressed following a review, conducted today at the Beaumont theater by umpires from Brooke Army Medical Center at San Antonio, and officials of Beaumont Hospital who directed and participated in the drill. Col. George Prazak, chief of the 12-member umpire team from Brooke Center, said the deficiencies that showed up in the test were minor.

One apparent deficiency was the slighting, or underrating of injuries received by the victims in the simulated fire resulting from a theoretical windstorm.

The judges expressed the opinion this down-grading "showed evidence of conservation of (medical) supplies, probably due to previous indoctrination in economy."

The overall result of the test was excellent, the umpires agreed. Colonel Prazak said: "The drill was excellently conducted, and was the result of concentrated thought, planning and diligent effort. It is evidence the hospital can care for mass casualties."

Birg Gen. L. Holmes Ginn Jr., Beaumont Hospital commander, said: "The exercise resulted in our being better prepared to handle such an emergency."

The El Paso County Veterinary Assn. announced today a list of fire stations where anti-rabies inoculations will be given to dogs during a five day campaign beginning Monday.

Ike Ignored, House Group Votes Aid Cut

President Threatens To Call Special Session This Fall

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—The House Appropriations Committee today ignored President Eisenhower's pleas and voted to cut his foreign aid program $809,650,000.

The appropriation measure was scheduled to go before the House for a vote on passage later today. The bill carries $3,191,810,000, including $2,524,760,000 in new cash and $667,050,000 reappropriated from unspent funds voted in previous years.

Eisenhower said yesterday that substantial cuts in money for the foreign aid program would force him to call Congress back into special session next fall. Despite this warning, a House subcommittee voted the $809,650,000 cash reduction.

About an hour before the full 50-member appropriations committee acted on the bill today, the President in a new White House statement said the cut might seriously hamper "the best interests of the United States."

But the group nevertheless approved the cut with the declaration that the amount voted would be enough for the purpose of keeping U. S. allies militarily and economically strong.

The committee was not, however, aware of the President's latest warning when it approved its subcommittee's action.

Republican members of the group said they would carry Eisenhower's fight to the House floor. They protested that Representative Gordon Canfield, New Jersey Republican, called the committee's "unseemly haste" in acting on the appropriation bill.

100 Film Stars Wait Judge's Edict in Magazine Libel Trial

Attempt to Keep Actors Off Stand

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 15.—Superior Judge Herbert V. Walker today was expected to rule on a motion which if granted would release a reluctant cast of about 100 movie stars from testifying about alleged escapades at the criminal libel trial of Confidential Magazine.

The legal maneuver followed yesterday's reading into the court records 14 lurid stories which introduced the names of 26 celebrities including such top stars as Frank Sinatra, Eddie Fisher, Mae West, June Allyson, Maureen O'Hara, Corinne Calvet, Jayne Mansfield and Robert Mitchum. The spicy yarns were from the pages of Confidential and its sister publication, Whisper Magazine.

Recess Called

Walker called a recess in the trial today but set aside time to hear arguments on the defense motion to eliminate the charges of criminal libel and proceed only on a charge of conspiracy to print obscenities. If the judge rules in favor of the motion, the movieland personalities would be spared the possible embarrassment of testifying—thus turning the sensational trial into a third rate production.

Defense Attorney Arthur J. Crowley was confident that the motion would be granted. He said "I wouldn't be making it if I didn't think that."

However, Assistant Attorney Gen. Clarence Linn, chief counsel for the prosecution, said he was equally positive that the judge would deny the motion.

The prosecution also has a motion pending before Walker. The motion if approved would bar scores of stars not involved in the alleged libelous articles cited from testifying.

Maureen O'Hara

Motion Pending

The first of the 14 stories read by the prosecution yesterday about Actress Maureen O'Hara, was entitled: "It was the Hottest Show in Town when Maureen O'Hara Cuddled in Row 35."

Another about Actor Alan Dale was printed under this title: "Ask Alan Dale—He Played House With Two Girls at Once."

Earlier, Carmen Jacquez, former roommate of admitted Call Girl Ronnie Quillan, told the court, "Mr. Harrison (Confidential publisher) asked Ronnie to get stories for Confidential," under questioning by the prosecution, which is seeking to prove that Harrison used vice girls as "jures" to trap stars and obtain spicy stories.

The story about Miss O'Hara appeared in the March 1957 issue.

After the article appeared, Miss O'Hara sued the magazine for a million dollars, charging libel. She said the story was ridiculous and denied it in toto. She has volunteered to appear as a prosecution witness at the trial.

Read By Prosecution

The story was read in its entirety by Deputy District Attorney William L. Ritzl.

"Even the usher in Grauman's Theater was shocked when he turned his flashlight on Maureen and her Latin boy friend."

The story related the purported love-making of the couple in the darkened Hollywood theater.

Miss O'Hara was a witness before the grand jury which returned indictments charging Confidential and Whisper Magazines with conspiracy to commit criminal libel and to print lewd and obscene matter.

Arab Nations Seek Emergency Meet

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Ten Arab nations today requested an emergency meeting of the Security Council to consider British "aggression" in Oman.

Egypt, Iraq, Jordan, Lebanon, Libya, Morocco, Saudi Arabia, Sudan, Syria and Yemen signed the request.

U. N. sources said the 11-nation council probably would be called to meet tomorrow or Saturday to take up the complaint.

Seven votes are required to place an issue on the agenda. Arab sources said privately they were not sure they could get that many.

Textile Organizer Sticks Neck Out in Rackets Quiz

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—There are, indeed, days when a man never should get out of bed.

For Marshall M. Miller of New York City, yesterday was such a day.

All Miller wanted to do was "clear my name" of some charges which had been made against him a couple of weeks ago before the Senate Rackets Committee which is looking into New York's "paper" locals.

He sent a wire to Chairman John L. McClellan, Arkansas Democrat, demanding that his side of the story be heard. Unfortunately for Miller, Senator McClellan complied—and the committee staff dug considerably deeper into Miller's background as a labor organizer and consultant.

Yesterday, after some last minute reluctance which ended when McClellan threatened him with a subpoena, Miller took the stand.

Before he left it two and a half hours later, Miller had not only heard the charges repeated and amplified. He had also been accused of taking a bribe, working for both labor and management at the same time, misrepresenting himself to himself and threatening to bring "goons" and "trigger men" into a union dispute in Grand Rapids, Mich. It even turned out the name he was so anxious to clear was not the one he was born with. And Miller was forced to admit that he changed his original name, Morris Miller, because it was unpopular "in certain parts of the South."

Miller denied all the charges, old and new. But when the afternoon ended, he looked considerably like a man who had wound up and kicked himself squarely in the pants.

The original charges were made Aug. 2 by John McNiff, youthful executive secretary of the Assn. of Catholic Trade Unionists.

McNiff said Miller, representing employers in the textile industry, had worked with President Archie Katz of Local 229 of the United Textile Workers Union to negotiate "sweatheart" contracts which exploited New York's Puerto Rican and Negro workers. And he said Miller used his position as a consultant with the New York State

$10,000 Bonds Set For Two in Vice Case

Two El Paso men, charged with transporting women for immoral purposes and prostitution, were arrested by the Federal Bureau of Investigation here today and placed under $10,000 bonds.

Henry Lowe, 22, and Edward Stitt, 21, told the U. S. Commissioner Henry C. Clifton they were not guilty. They were picked up early today by FBI agents in Apartment 2 on 2514 Montana street.

The original complaint, filed in Silver City Aug. 14, charges the two men with violation of the White Slavery Traffic Act.

The FBI is now investigating similar violations of the White Slavery Act.

Low, according to the complaint, took Mary Ann Allison, 23, from El Paso to Silver City on Aug. 5 for the purpose of prostitution.

The complaint says Stitt trans-

Syrian Rupture With U. S. Near

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Diplomatic relations between the United States and Syria were near the breaking point today.

But American officials said any such move is up to Syria. They said the U. S. Government does not intend to cut off all relations with the Middle Eastern country, now at the lowest point in recent history.

The crisis in American-Syrian relations has been developing for more than a year because of the Syrian government's policy of cooperation with the Soviet Union.

Some U. S. diplomats believe Syria under its present regime has virtually a Soviet satellite status.

The explosion was reached this week when Syria suddenly accused the United States of plotting to overthrow the Syrian government.

Two American diplomats and the U. S. Military attaché were told to get out of Syria.

The State Department retaliated yesterday by ousting Dr. Farid Zein-Eddine, Syrian ambassador to the United States, and Dr. Yassin Zakaria, second secretary of the Syrian Embassy here.

The State Department simultaneously announced that James S. Moose Jr., U. S. Ambassador to Syria now in the United States for home leave and reassignment, "is not returning to Syria." It said the ambassadorial post will remain vacant for the foreseeable future. The U. S. Embassy in Syria will be kept open, however, with Robert C. Strong in charge.
