Red Envoy Calls For 'Giant Two' Private Parleys

Says Talks Wouldn't Replace Summit Meeting

EXCLUSIVE!

By HENRY N. TAYLOR
Scripps-Howard Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov said today it would be "very desirable" for President Eisenhower and Nikita Khrushchev to meet and discuss world problems, with no other nations present.

In an exclusive interview, Menshikov said he thought Russia would "welcome" bilateral talks with the U. S., though probably not as replacing the multi-nation summit conference for which Moscow has been pressing.

Speaking pleasantly in English without the customary translator or witness, the Ambassador talked 25 minutes beyond the agreed half-hour interview. In conversation loaded with words like "peace," he displayed the affability and humor which have marked his six weeks in Washington.

Menshikov also called for increased Soviet-U. S. trade. And he said that, despite the debate among American scientists about the possibility of detecting secret nuclear tests, Soviet scientists agree unanimously that detection is possible and that inspection against cheating would be "no problem," if nuclear tests were suspended.

In the question-and-answer session, Menshikov also made these observations:

On the Vanguard success: "Very nice. The more scientific achievements, the better. Certainly, Russia plans to launch more Sputniks and perhaps to shoot for the moon, though I am not informed about science. No, we don't regard ourselves as racing America to the moon. A friendly competition perhaps, but the main thing is to avoid a race in armaments."

On nuclear tests: "All these dreadful weapons must be banned. The main problem between the two nations is to cut off tests and production of these weapons. We would sign an agreement to stop tests tomorrow. We offered to do that three years ago. Of course by testing we have achieved certain military advantage. But we have been willing to stop all along."

Asked if Russia had been invited to observe next month's U. S. nuclear tests in the Pacific, as promised by President Eisenhower last year, Menshikov said: "I have no knowledge of any such invitation. It is no good to observe tests. The need is to stop the tests."

Q. Does the U. S. S. R. plan to invite foreign observers to its own tests in the future?
A. I am not informed if we plan any more.

Atmosphere of Trust
Q. What good would a summit conference do, if both sides do not agree beforehand on substantial problems?
A. Only through a top meeting can we clarify our positions, break the ice. We might have to meet many times afterward to work out (Continued on Page 14, Col. 1.)

Summit Meeting In Early Fall Eyed by U. S.

Summit Meeting In Early Fall Eyed by U. S.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—The United States is thinking about an East-West summit conference in late September or early October at Geneva, Switzerland, officials disclosed today.

Crucially important foreign policy business picked up while Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was at Manila attending the Southeast Asian Treaty Organization conference.

Private Talks
While in the Pacific he held private talks on a summit conference with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau.

New moves to sound out the Russians on summit possibilities already are under way. The North Atlantic Treaty Council in Paris is reviewing prospects for a worthwhile summit meeting.

Ministers Meet
The council is expected to agree that the next best move will be to propose a foreign ministers conference to discuss disarmament, Germany and other questions prior to a summit meeting.

On his return to Washington Tuesday Dulles emphasized the gap between East and West on moves to agree on using outer space for peaceful purposes. Asked about Moscow's latest proposals on outer space, Dulles said they contained "nothing new."

He objected to Russia's renewed effort to link outer space control with abandonment of American overseas bases.

Rescue Liner Speeds To Sumatra's Yanks

By United Press
SINGAPORE, March 19.—The 20,000-ton Dutch liner Orange sped today toward Sumatra to rescue foreign civilians threatened by new outbreaks of fighting in the spreading Indonesian civil war.

Diplomatic officials here said the liner would dock Thursday at Belawan, 15 miles north of the embattled northern Sumatra capital of Medan, to take on 125 Americans, 300 Dutch and 50 British men, women and children.

Real Estate Strong

Double in Population Here Seen in 10 Years

Real estate is in no recession and faces no depression—and El Paso is in direct line for development that probably will double its population in the next 10 years.

This is the core of a message brought to El Paso today by Harold Clingerman, field representative of the National Assn. of Real Estate Boards.

Mr. Clingerman came here to address the El Paso Board of Realtors at the Board's luncheon meeting today at the Hilton Hotel. His home is in Lincoln, Neb., and his headquarters are in Chicago.

"In my contacts with real estate men all over the country I hear no talk of a recession in real estate," Mr. Clingerman told the El Paso realtors. "There is no threat whatever of a depression in real estate."

"We have nothing to fear in the years ahead. In the next 18 years, the United States population will increase by 60,000,000. The population of Texas will increase 30 percent. El Paso's population will increase for more than the State's percentage, and undoubtedly will double what it is today.

"There is every reason to be-

More Evidence On Trains Sought

Opponents of the application of Southern Pacific Co. to discontinue the Argonaut train between El Paso and Houston prepared today to seek reopening of the hearing that ended suddenly in El Paso yesterday.

The closing hours of the hearing were given to evidence by Southern Pacific that the operation of the Argonaut resulted in a loss of $181,267 in 1957.

H. L. Bell, assistant general manager of the Texas and New Orleans Railroad, owned by Southern Pacific, presented figures showing revenues from the Argonaut declined from $2,144,048 in 1951 to $570,189 in 1957. The figures showed the high month in 1957 for Argonaut passenger revenues was July, with $76,705, and the low month was November, with $14,361. These figures were taken from (Continued on Page 4, Col. 4)

Senate Gets Bill to Start Airport Work

Yarborough Measure Would Clear Path For El Paso Project

WASHINGTON, March 19.—Passage of a measure introduced in the Senate this week would mean $850,000 in construction work at El Paso International Airport could be started almost immediately.

The bill was co-sponsored by Senator Ralph Yarborough, Texas Democrat, and several other senators. It would extend Federal aid to airport construction authorization and make available at once $75 million in construction funds. El Paso, Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, Texas Democrat, pointed out, has applied for $425,000 in Federal aid for the building of a new taxiway and other facilities. That application now is pending before the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

The City would have to match the $425,000 in Federal funds which the Yarborough bill would make available with its own appropriation.

In Texas more than $16 million in construction could be started with Federal and matching local funds under the measure.

In El Paso, Airport Manager James Gagnon said some projects in an $851,400 program for 1958-59 could get under way as early as July. The airport already has a $1 million-plus program scheduled to start in April.

The $851,400 program includes nine separate projects, three of which should be started this summer to tie in with other work already approved, Mr. Gagnon said. They are:

Reconstruction of airport entrance road and parking space, $53,300; construction of 60,000 square yards of paved aircraft parking space, $149,000; and resurfacing of 16,000 feet of aircraft taxiways, $185,100.

Other projects in the program are: New taxiway lighting, $48,000; airport drainage, $48,500; construction of 300,000-gallon underground fuel storage tanks, $152,500; extension of the northeast-southwest runway to a total length of 11,850 feet, $198,300; and extension of runway lighting, $10,800.

Name Western Correspondent

By Scripps-Howard Newspapers
WASHINGTON, March 19.—Albert M. Colegrove today was named western correspondent for the Scripps-Howard Newspapers.

The appointment was announced here by Walker Stone, Scripps-Howard editor-in-chief, who said that the rapid population growth and increasing importance of the area west of the Rocky Mountains called for more extensive news coverage.

In this newly-created post, Colegrove joins a growing and mobile corps of Scripps-Howard staff writers who daily file special dispatches from places where big news is breaking in the United States and overseas.

Colegrove's home base will be in San Francisco. From there, he will seek out news of national interest in all the Western states.

Colegrove has been in the Scripps-Howard organization 19 years, with time out for service in the Army in World War II and the Korean War.

Reared in California, he has served on the staffs of the El Paso Herald-Post, the Houston Press, the Evansville (Ind.) Press, and the San Francisco News.

From 1952 to 1956, he was a Washington correspondent for the Scripps-Howard Newspapers, with a byline familiar to Herald-Post readers.

Since April 2, 1956, he has been executive editor of the San Francisco News, the post he is relinquishing to accept his new assignment.

New Ambassador

By United Press
TEHRAN, Iran, March 19.—Foreign Minister Aligholi Ardalan said today he would travel to the United States next month to replace Ambassador to Washington Ali Amini, who has been recalled.

Art Moreno, youthful manager who has played a major part in building Patterson Photo Supplies into a $475,000 a year business, predicts that the missing owner, W. D. Patterson, will return to El Paso. He told The Herald-Post he firmly believes he will receive word from Patterson—perhaps soon.

He Will Be Back
"I do not know where Mr. Patterson is," Mr. Moreno said. "I have tried to find him. But I have known him a long time. Because of our relationship and my knowledge of him I am confident he will get in touch with me. He will be back."

Mr. and Mrs. Patterson disappeared March 5, 1957. Young Moreno has been with Patterson Photo Supplies since September of 1951. He has been acquainted with "Pat" Patterson since boyhood. He was Patterson's trusted right-hand man and has been the actual manager of the business, aside from handling legal

Annual Flower Show Dedication Goes To Publication Chief

The 32nd annual Flower Show was dedicated at the kickoff luncheon in Hotel Cortez today to E. K. Lucas, who has served as publication chairman of the show's program for the last five years.

The dedication came as a surprise to Mr. Lucas, who is president of the Advertising Service and Transit Advertising firms here.

"For years Mr. Lucas has given time, skill and experience to help make this and past shows a success," Mrs. W. J. Fargason Jr., general chairman of the show, said. "He has worked so that flower lovers of El Paso could enjoy these shows. He is a splendid citizen of El Paso and interested in all that is beautiful in our City. To him for his uniring efforts in his work, cheerfulness and personality, we dedicate this, the 32nd annual flower show."

The first program was given to Mr. Lucas.

The show, sponsored by the Council of El Paso Garden Clubs, will be held April 26 and 27 in the Coliseum. The theme this year is "The Four Seasons."

Mrs. Fargason introduced her co-chairman, Mrs. William Howard, Mrs. L. L. Elliott, publication distribution chairman, Mrs. W. D. Thomas, chairman of the co-ordinating committee, and committee members.

Mrs. Herb Ruiz gave a report of the advance sales of tickets. Friends of Mr. Moreno take strong exception to a published report that Patterson "took him off the streets and taught him the business."

Actually, friends say, young Moreno was never "on the streets" in any capacity suggesting idleness, and he did not learn the photographic business from Patterson.

Morris Thirman of Thirman's Studio at 217 South El Paso street recalled his own association with Art Moreno and his father, the late J. N. Moreno.

"Art's father worked for me for 13 years," Mr. Thirman said. "He was a noble man, a highly re-

Something Is Brewing

Two Stations Abandon Lower Gasoline Price

Two El Paso service stations that have been selling gasoline for four days at 25 cents a gallon for regular grade and 27 for premium ended the "low-price run" and went back today to prices of last Friday.

Ramon's Dixie Service Station at 301 East Paisano drive went back to posted prices of 29 cents for regular and 32 cents for premium.

Ramon Orellana, owner, said, "We are returning to our usual prices for the time being." He said the station sold around 40,000 gallons of gasoline from Saturday morning to last night, and that "we didn't make a cent of profit, but we accomplished our aim."

Ramiro's Dixie Station at 6717 Alameda avenue also returned to its usual prices today, 30½ cents for regular and 32 cents for premium.

Ramiro Aguilar, owner-operator at that spot for 30 years, said, matters under the receivership, since his employer's disappearance.

At a receivership hearing last Friday Receiver Herbert Roth testified Mr. Moreno has been doing an excellent job.

Not "Off Streets"
Friends and associates credit the 24-year-old Moreno with having boosted gross sales last year to well over $475,000, an increase of more than $150,000 over 1956.

Patterson's does business throughout the Southwest, selling photo equipment and supplies to large and small customers, including military installations.

Friends of Mr. Moreno take strong exception to a published report that Patterson "took him off the streets and taught him the business."
