Young Wife Wants To Marry Bigamous Mate Who Shot Her

Lover and Husband Still Remain In Ft. Bliss Prison

Mrs. Carol Williams, 19, shooting victim in a love triangle, is eager to get out of William Beaumont Army Hospital and get a divorce so "I can marry the man I really love."

That man, she said, is Army Sgt. Aria Brewington, 26, who is in the Ft. Bliss guardhouse. He was arrested after the shooting that both he and Mrs. Williams claim was an accident in an apartment at 4101 Morehead drive 10 days ago.

Also in the Ft. Bliss guardhouse is Mrs. Williams' legal husband, Pvt. Arnold Williams, who is held as a material witness in the shooting. He was present when the shot was fired that struck Mrs. Williams in the breast.

Wants Quick Divorce

"My one great hope is to be married as quickly as possible to the man I love," Mrs. Williams said. "I expect to get a divorce in a few days, and I hope Ft. Bliss authorities get this thing all cleared up quickly so Sergeant Brewington and I can be married."

Mrs. Williams said she so far has recovered from the bullet injury that she hopes to leave the hospital tomorrow.

Her attorney, Joseph Rey, said it is probable Mrs. Williams will not be released from the hospital until Monday. He said she is "up and around" at the hospital, but that he must find living quarters for her before she leaves the hospital.

Plans New Wedding

Mr. Rey said Mrs. Williams has told him she wants a divorce from Private Williams and that she has said she and Sergeant Brewington will be married as soon as possible.

"We are in love, deeply in love," Mrs. Williams said in the hospital today, and added that "Arnold (her legal husband) has no objection to the divorce—in fact, he wants me to get it."

Mrs. Carol Williams

Mrs. Williams said she and Private Williams were married in her home town, Middleton, N. Y., a year and a half ago. She said they met there and that she left high school in her senior year to be married.

Marriage on Rocks

The marriage didn't work out well, Mrs. Williams said, and she and Private Williams separated. She had met Sergeant Brewington at a military post in the South and she came to El Paso and "began going around" with Brewington.

Their courtship led to marriage at Las Cruces April 22. Sergeant Brewington said, after the shooting, he did not know Carol already was married before he and she were married.

Gun Enters Case

Private Williams, whose home base now is Camp Gordon, near Augusta, Ga., came to El Paso a few days before the shooting, reportedly to discuss a divorce. Officers who investigated the shooting were told the three principals went around together here during the days and nights the divorce was under discussion.

What Sergeant Brewington was doing with a .22 caliber pistol before and at the time of the shooting is something he presumably will be called upon to explain to military officials.

Sheriff Bars Separate City Jail System

Refuses to Permit Special Operation Of Prison Wing

By FRANK WHITE
Sheriff W. O. Hicks said today there are only three ways in which City Jail prisoners can be handled at the new City-County building during the next 18 months while remodeling of the old court house and jail building is under way.

"I have advised City officials that I will never consent to their having a City jailer in the County Jail quarters with the right to admit and release prisoners or to control their conduct in any jail under my custody," said Sheriff Hicks.

Resents Plans

"I have also told County Judge McGovern and his County commissioners, who have done just about everything possible to handicap County officials in carrying out their duties, the same thing," said Sheriff Hicks. He expressed displeasure at any attempt to go behind his back and effect an arrangement with the City which might interfere with his duty of keeping prisoners safely in the County Jail.

"The three ways under which City prisoners might be handled are:

"1. The City can board the prisoners with the County under the same arrangement we have with the Federal Government at a price which covers the expense of feeding and safeguarding them.

"2. City officers can file misdemeanor charges with the justices of the peace for almost every type of minor crime for which they now keep prisoners in the City Jail.

Separate Areas

"3. An arrangement can be worked out to completely separate portions of the jail so as to give the County absolute control of one section and the City absolute control of the other, I have asked the architects to determine if this can be done but so far they have not come up with an answer."

Army Plans Face Snag At Ft. Bliss

Guided Missiles Eyed Cautiously By Capitol Hill

By NEIL McNEIL
Herald-Post Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Army plans for future development of Ft. Bliss apparently face real trouble on Capitol Hill next year.

They ran into some difficulties this year. Next year they may be able to by-pass them.

Ft. Bliss' future seems to be tied to the future of the guided missile, especially to the Nike and the Nike-Hercules.

But the Senate Armed Services Committee doesn't see much future for either of those anti-aircraft weapons.

The attitude of the committee, reportedly a very strong one, was tipped in its report on military construction authorization plans for fiscal 1958.

$7.7 Million Expenditure

Those plans include the expenditure of $7.7 million at Bliss, mainly for further work on guided missile training facilities there.

The committee report said, however, it thinks "the time has come to re-evaluate and to insure that our efforts are spent only on those systems that will meet future requirements."

And Nike and Nike-Hercules may not fill that requirement in a very short time, the committee thinks.

"In view of the ever-increasing capacity of offensive weapons, both in our hands and in those of the potential aggressor, the committee cannot help but feel uncomfortable at the thought of spending increased amounts for the weapons which represent but a last ditch symbol," its report said.

The "fixed-position" weapon like the Nike has a "Magnet Line" concept connected with it, the committee said. And it pointed out of how little use the Magnet Line was.

40 Per Cent to Nike

"Approximately 40 per cent of this year's Army construction program is devoted to Nike," the committee's report said. "Nike is a fixed-point defensive system."

"The committee questions the wisdom of future extensions of the system on a larger scale."

"In view of the fact that weapons of mass destruction can be released at great distances from their potential targets, the committee came to the conclusion that the time is at hand when emphasis must be placed on weapons systems which will provide greater defense in depth."

"In view of the foregoing, the committee seriously considered recommending that no further authorization be approved to expand the existing Nike system," the report said.

This would have probably meant a cut back in training of troops to man the Nike systems — and Ft. Bliss is that training center.

The committee did not so recommend, however, "only because the best military advice available strongly recommended that the (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Gas Station Attendant Hit With Gun

Two Pose As Hikers; Believe One in Hotel Holdup

Two men held up the S. E. Warren Chevron Service Station at 4976 Mesa road. One pistol whipped Station Attendant Lake Holesapple early today.

They took $61 from the cash register and failed to find $45 in a cigar box.

Holesapple told police the two young men strolled in the station at 3:15 a. m. today and asked if he knew where they could hitch a ride to town.

Gives Information

"I told them there was not much traffic on Mesa avenue that time of morning and they should go over to Doniphan drive," Holesapple said.

One of the men, described as six feet tall and heavy set, pulled a small caliber gun.

"He told me to open the register and then he motioned to his partner, who was short and slender, to get the money from the drawer," Holesapple said.

"They told me to go into the grease room. They told me to place my arms against the wall and to extend my legs outwardly. Then I felt a hard blow on the head."

Holesapple said he crouched when he received the first blow and the second blow knocked him face down on the floor.

"I felt at least three more blows on the head," Holesapple said.

Hotel Holdup Fails

"I don't think I was ever knocked completely unconscious since I heard them start a car in the back of the station," Holesapple said.

Holesapple was treated at El Paso General Hospital for scalp cuts after he called the police station.

Police said the description of the second man fits the description of a man who earlier in the evening attempted to hold up the Gardner Hotel at Stanton and Franklin streets.

The clerk rang a bell when the man entered and drew a gun. The clerk accidentally hit his arm against a bell which apparently scared the holdup man and forced him to run.

Both men were described as wearing a white T-shirt and dark trousers. Both were reported as five feet seven inches in height and having dark complexion.

Montana and Piedras Gets Traffic Island

A traffic island will be installed Sunday at the intersection of Montana and Piedras streets, Traffic Engineer Joe Nadon announced today.

The island, to be made of sandbags, will divide the right side of Piedras going south into two lanes. The island will be curved in order to force traffic in the extreme right lane to turn right on Montana, Mr. Nadon said. The right lane closest to the middle of Piedras may be used for straight-ahead traffic or for right turns also into Montana.

POLIO DECLINES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Only 70 cases of paralytic polio were reported in the United States last week, compared with 360 in the same week last year, the Public Health Service announced today.

Claims Blackmail Try By Confidential Agent

By United Press
HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 16.—A Hollywood producer testified today he was "blackmailed" by agents of Confidential magazine who demanded $1000 to prevent publication of a spicy story about a wild filmland party attended by Robert Mitchum, Charles Laughton, and Elsa Lanchester.

The witness for the prosecution in the criminal libel trial of Confidential and Whisper magazines was Producer-Director Paul Gregory, of the stage-readings "John Brown's Body" and "Don Juan in Hell."

He told the court that a woman he identified as Mrs. Marjorie Meade, one of the West Coast agents for Confidential, met with him in 1955 and told him he could "buy off the contract of the writer of the article and it would not be published."

Gregory said she told him the article would be "scandalously injurious" to Gregory and his associates. He told her, he testified, that "this was character assassination and blackmail and I intend to report it to the proper authorities." He testified she replied that it was "not blackmail" but that she was merely trying to prevent publication of an article injurious to me.

Confidential subsequently published an article titled "Robert Mitchum—the nude who came to dinner," an article about a scandalous Hollywood party which claimed Mitchum cavorted in the all-together.

One of 'Bombshells'

Gregory was one of two "bombshell" witnesses in court today to refute or substantiate the truth of articles in the two scandal-mongering magazines.

On tap for the defense was the usher at Grauman's Chinese theater who reportedly saw Maureen O'Hara romancing a boy friend in a theater seat.

The defense was ready to follow the end of the prosecution case today by putting on James Craig, an Irish national and part time bit player in the movies. Craig was an usher at Grauman's Chinese Theater when Miss O'Hara, according to a story in Confidential, held a spooning session in Row 35 that was "so hot it bothered the air conditioning."

Shines Flashlight

Craig purportedly was the man who shined the flashlight on Miss O'Hara and her Latin lover—and then wrote it all down for Confidential.

The defense is seeking to prove the magazine printed the truth

Residents Win Street Changes

Public Service Board officials today yielded to a group of Van Buren street residents who asked that the entrance to the proposed new PSB headquarters be changed to another street.

The group, headed by Hector Silva of 4100 Van Buren, appeared before the Planning Commission today after they were notified that PSB officials wanted the headquarters site rezoned from residential to commercial.

Mr. Silva read a petition objecting to the zone change. The petition was signed by nine property owners in the 4100 block of Van Buren.

At the Commission public hearing, it was mentioned that Van Buren would be the street at which the 100-plus feet of PSB trucks and vehicles would enter the PSB grounds.

Edmund de la Rosa of 4108 Van Buren said, "There are 24 or 25 kids that live in this block. This heavy traffic would be dangerous to them."

PSB officials agreed to move the entrance to the headquarters to Harrison street, which is one block from Van Buren.

The PSB headquarters will contain office, storage and warehouse space. The site covers 39 acres, bounded by Truman avenue, the Southern Pacific Railroad tracks, Pollard street and Van Buren.

Child Needs Money

Operation Shows Girl Will Not Walk Again

Carolyn Koonce, 13, left paralyzed after she was shot by her stepfather, will never walk again.

The Anthony girl was operated on yesterday at Southwestern General Hospital. Friends and relatives had hoped the operation would help her regain use of her legs.

But physicians said the operation showed that a bullet had severed Carolyn's spinal cord. The surgeon could not repair the damage.

"Now it is a matter of rehabilitation," one of her physicians said. Friends are raising a fund to help Carolyn. They hoped it would pay for a series of operations, if necessary, that would put Carolyn back on her feet.

Money is still needed, her friends said to pay hospital and surgical bills and to help her adjust to a new way of life.

Patients Drugged

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 16.—A prominent Tulsa physician, married and the father of two children, was accused today of giving "truth serum" to his women patients and then assaulting them after they had lost the will to resist.

County Attorney J. Howard Edmondson, calling the case the "most bizarre" he ever investigated, said he will search for more alleged victims of Dr. John Richard Rhine, 35.

Rhine, a general practitioner and graduate of the Oklahoma University Medical School, pleaded innocent when arraigned before Common Pleas Judge Paul Walker Jr. Yesterday. He was ordered held without bond pending preliminary hearing Aug. 26.

Edmondson said an investigation had been underway for more than a year with the assistance of the Tulsa County Medical Society. But the delay in filing charges was due to the reluctance of the alleged victims to testify because of the embarrassment and fear of publicity.

In Doctor's Office
The offense named in the charge allegedly occurred in the doctor's office at Sheridan Village here July 27, 1956.

"It appears the doctor gave them either sodium nembutal, sodium amylal or pentothal sodium," Edmondson said.

"They're all in the truth serum class. It puts a person in a sort of twilight zone where they realize what's going on but don't care. The person knows very well what's happening but is unable to do anything about it."

Edmondson said he had taken statements from six women allegedly assaulted by the doctor. But only one, a 20-year-old housewife, had signed a formal complaint.

"It is very possible that there are several more women who have had similar experiences with this doctor," Edmondson said.
